SETTING A COURSE TO MEET THE CHALLENGES AHEAD

Thank you to everyone who attended our 81st annual meeting at the Iola-Scandinavia High School in Iola. We had a larger than normal turnout and as always, we enjoyed visiting with you and sharing the accomplishments of your cooperative from the previous year. 2018 was another successful year for the cooperative and we are pleased that so many of you came to the meeting. And thanks for your participation in this year's election for members to serve on our board of directors. Service as a director is a challenging, but extremely rewarding experience. Our success depends on engaged and committed members willing to serve on our board of directors and our member committees.

The proposed bylaw revisions introduced at the annual meeting were adopted. The revised bylaws clarify language in several areas and will be easier to read and understand. More time has been allotted for the director nomination process, and the nomination by petition signature requirement has been reduced from 50 to 20 signatures. All changes are intended to make it easier for our members to seek to serve on our board of directors.

We are very proud of the services we provide to our local communities, but we are also proud when we can help our fellow electric cooperatives in need. In 2018, we helped restore power to Adams-Columbia Electric Cooperative (ACEC) when they were hit by a massive storm, and ACEC has been quick to provide assistance when we have faced extensive storm damage to our system. Two of our line workers recently returned from assisting Freeborn-Mower Cooperative Services in Albert Lea, Minnesota, with damage that resulted from a spring ice storm. Thanks to John Bestul and Mackenzie Yarbrough for their commitment to helping their fellow cooperatives. We lend a helping hand because we know they'll be there to help us should the need ever arise. But more importantly, it is the right thing to do.

This summer, the board of directors

will hold strategic planning sessions with the management staff to develop a new strategic plan. This is a time at which we analyze the strengths and weaknesses of the cooperative and chart a course to meet the challenges that lay before us. Once we have completed the strategic planning process, we will develop strategic initiatives and action items before our fall budget cycle. I look forward to working with staff and our board to develop a new strategic plan.

Although I never thought the snow would melt, I hope you are spending time outdoors and are making your summer plans. Enjoy your summer fun because it will pass all too quickly. Be safe in your travels.

COOPERATION AMONG COOPERATIVES

CWEC linemen lend a hand at a Minnesota co-op after April storm

The Midwest is no stranger to bad spring weather. Earlier this month, the Midwest was hit by a large winter storm causing extensive power outages. Central Wisconsin Electric Cooperative was lucky; we were able to restore power to our members quickly. Some cooperatives weren't.

Freeborn-Mower Cooperative Services in Albert Lea, Minnesota, sent out a request for additional linemen and equipment through the ROPE (Restoration of Power in an Emergency) program on Thursday, April 11. The storm delivered high winds, snow, and ice to southern Minnesota. In the wake of the storm, nearly 500 poles were downed and about half of Freeborn-Mower's distribution system was without power.

On Friday, April 12, two of CWEC's linemen, John Bestul and Mackenzie Yarbrough, along with a digger truck and pole trailer, set out to help our neighbors to the west. John and Mack were tasked with replacing the downed three-phase lines, alongside linemen from Bayfield Electric, Taylor Electric, and Price Electric Cooperatives, working 16-hour grueling days.

Over 120 linemen from 17 electric cooperatives, traveling from Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, and Illinois, came to aid in power restoration to Freeborn-Mower members. Through hard work and long days, all power was restored to Freeborn-Mower members by Wednesday, April 17.

SAFETY IS KEY

Central Wisconsin Electric Cooperative was awarded the 2018 Corporate Safety Award. On April 16, CWEC's Kevin Kurtzweil and Dennis Magee traveled to Wisconsin Dells to receive the award. The Corporate Safety Award honors businesses for an exemplary safety record and excellence in safety and health management. It is given to the best of the best safe businesses in the state.

"I'm very proud of our employees at CWEC. It takes a team effort to produce a safety culture in an organization," said CWEC VP of Operations Kevin Kurtzweil.

CWEC CELEBRATES ITS 81ST ANNUAL MEETING

Over 250 members filled the Iola-Scandinavia High School auditorium on Tuesday, April 23, for Central Wisconsin Electric Cooperative’s 81st annual meeting. CWEC repeated the weekday evening format adopted by chance last year, when heavy spring snow forced the cancellation of the scheduled Saturday morning meeting.

“The cooperative experienced no lost-time accidents for a fifth consecutive year in 2018, and employees have traveled more than 800,000 accident-free vehicle miles,” Board Chairman Anthony Buss reported. “To enhance safety efforts and save money, Central Wisconsin partners with four other co-ops to share regulatory compliance and safety services,” he added.

President and CEO Mike Wade highlighted Central Wisconsin’s investment in the West Riverside Energy Center near Beloit. The expansion project is on an existing power plant site, and Central Wisconsin will own five megawatts of the overall 700-megawatt output. The Alliant Energy facility is expected to be the most efficient natural gas-fired power plant in Wisconsin when it comes on line in mid-2020.

Members approved the results of board election conducted by mail. David Wozniak, CPA, from CliftonLarsonAllen LLP, announced the election results: Lee Lehrer and Elaine Eckendorf, unopposed, were returned to their seats for new three-year terms.

Board reorganization following the annual meeting left officers Anthony Buss, Jr. as chairman and Tom Smith as vice chairman, with Elaine Eckendorf elected as secretary/ treasurer.
